

the sun comes up. Also be sure it doesn't water during a rainy day. Have you heard of graywater? It's used water that is great for toilets and watering, but not drinking. You can install a rain barrel that catches rainwater from the gutter of your house. This is a neat way to store water for using on the lawn and garden. Another way to save water is to play in it only at a swimming pool or water park. Playing with a running garden hose uses a lot of water.

When you go out to eat only ask for a full glass of ice water if you will drink all of it.

Check with your local City for other cool water saving ideas and if there are any rules on how to use domestic water.
